EXHIBITS

Last Call: History of Alcohol in the Ozarks | March 15-November 9

Take a peek into the tangled history of alcohol laws in Northwest Arkansas from the 1800s to today. From moonshiners of the Ozark hills, to the energetic women of the temperance movement, Arkansas has had a complicated relationship with alcohol. See how the legacy of this historic battle between “wets” and “drys” extends to the present day, and how Northwest Arkansas has weathered the journey.

A Century of American Glassware | February 17-August 10

A glowing showcase of glassware in the museum’s collections from the 1870s-1970s, featuring cut, pressed, and decorative glass, as well as a collection of decorative salt dishes that belonged to the Reagan sisters.

Building Rogers | August 31-March 1

Explore the early architectural heritage of Rogers from 1881-1950s. Learn about the architects and builders who created many of Rogers’ businesses, churches, public buildings, and homes through a display of photographs, documents, and building related objects from the museum’s collections that highlight Rogers’ architectural past.

1895 HAWKINS HOUSE TOURS

Oh, Christmas Tree | November 23-January 4

The Hawkins House will be decorated to reflect the history of the Christmas tree and its decor. Visitors will be guided from room to room learning and seeing the traditions of the Christmas tree, from the early tradition of a small tree that sat on a table with handmade ornaments, to the introduction of glass ornaments and large trees standing from floor to ceiling.
